

I wanted to make my review sessions for my exams fun so I created games based off of TV game shows like Astronomy Jeopardy or the Wheel of Astronomy (above – Pinwheel galaxy is in the center). Not only do the students compete with each other and other teams to get the most points to win the games, but the students who don't know the material very well learn as well. I have found that doing these review games help student exam scores.