Students push for Prop EE on eve of election

Aamirah Syed
Layout Editor

Last Monday, from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m., Dick Robertson, Vice President of Student Services, hosted an evening of phone calls to the community encouraging them to vote yes on Proposition EE. Four Student Ambassadors, Brian Matthews, Paola Illescas, Charise Moore, and Connor Zablow, along with the President of the College, Dr. Francisco Rodriguez, MCC retiree Kathy Perkins, Cynthia Rice, and faculty member Jane DeRoche made more than 500 phone calls to the community regarding the proposition.

“I remain cautiously optimistic that the count of these last ballots could push Proposition EE past the 55 percent needed for passage,” stated Dr. Rodriguez.

The goal of Proposition EE is to improve academic facility and technology projects that help students, active duty military, and war veterans to transfer to four-year universities or to be granted training for higher-paying jobs. These improvements will permit MCC to continue providing a means for affordable and high-quality education.

Because MCC’s enrollment has increased more than 40 percent, students, active military, and war veterans are unable to enroll in fundamentally required classes such as math and science. If this proposition passes, class offerings will increase and shorten the time required by students to complete their programs. Additionally, because MCC supplies vital job training for preparation for the workforce, this proposition will allow MCC to continue offering residents of the community training and education in areas such as health sciences, occupational therapy, and other job training and workforce programs.

“Win or lose, I want to congratulate the staff, faculty, students, and community volunteers whose hard work and dedication to this endeavor succeeded in creating awareness of the needs of our students and of the many ways MiraCosta College serves this region. Thank you all for your efforts and commitment,” Dr Rodriguez also stated.

As of press time, the proposition held 54.1 percent of the vote. Fifty-five percent is needed to pass.

ASG pays tribute to veterans

Aamirah Syed
Layout Editor

Last Thursday, an MIA table was set up in the cafeteria on the Oceanside campus to honor U.S. military who are missing in action.

The table and the various objects on it each held a symbolical significance. A white table cloth represented the purity of the Armed Forces member’s intentions to respond to their country’s call to arms. A red rose represented the blood sacrificed to ensure America’s freedom, and also served as a reminder of the friends and family who faithfully wait for their return. A yellow ribbon represented those worn on the lapels of those who demand a proper accounting of fallen members of the military. A lemon slice represented the bitterness of their fate. Salt sprinkled on the plate represented the tears of their families. An inverted glass represented the fact that they are not present to toast. A candle represented a light of hope that these members of the Armed Forces will find their ways safely home.

Veterans Day originated in 1919 as Armistice Day, proclaimed by President Woodrow Wilson. On that day he said, “To us in America, the reflections of Armistice Day will be filled with the solemn pride that they are not present to toast. Veterans Day not only upholds the historical importance of the date, but helps focus attention on the important purpose of the day, a celebration to pay tribute to America’s veterans for their patriotism, love, and willingness to serve and sacrifice.

However, the original concept for celebration was for a day of parading, public meetings and a brief suspension of business beginning. Later in that same year, President Eisenhower announced the first “Veterans Day Proclamation,” stating, “In order to insure proper and widespread observance of this anniversary, all veterans, all veterans’ organizations, and the entire citizenry will wish to join hands in the common purpose.” Veterans Day not only upholds the historical importance of the date, but helps focus attention on the important purpose of the day, a celebration to pay tribute to America’s veterans for their patriotism, love, and willingness to serve and sacrifice.
Learn today the skills needed to become a leader for tomorrow--ELI

Alexandra Korbin
Staff Writer

The Emerging Leaders Institute Conference (ELI) hosted by the MiraCosta College Student Services will take place on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, on the Oceanside campus. This conference is a free, non-credit certificate program open to all MCC students, geared to providing students with the tools they need to excel in leadership positions.

The deadline to apply is Nov. 21. “I went to ELI in the spring of 2011. I thought it was a really great experience because it introduced me different leadership styles, and inspired me to run for Inter-Club Council Chair,” Nicci Aimau, ASCI Recording Secretary and former Inter-Club Council Chair.

According to Jim Gonzales, Director of Student Activities, the Emerging Leaders Institute will present nine workshops designed to give students the information they need to gain confidence and excel in the classroom, workplace, and community. These workshops will teach students how to become effective leaders in the community.

- Communication
- Skills & Conflict Resolution
- Leadership Styles, Diverse Communities
- Ethical Decision-Making
- Teamwork and Collaboration
- Time Management
- Vision and Goal Setting
- Creating Networks
- Public Speaking

“Professionals pay thousands of dollars to receive these skills, MiraCosta College students can receive this training for free. Take advantage of this opportunity to elevate your leadership skills,” stated Gonzales.

Additionally, students will be encouraged to participate in a service learning project to implement the skills acquired during the conference.

“Nothing matter how you think you know coming into this conference, it gets turned around. The presenters let you into their world and how they became leaders, and they’re all from different colleges. They come from all over, and you wonder ‘Why are you here?’ and they’re honestly there to help you. They want to support you in everything you do. This kind of conference would typically cost almost $6,000 to $7,000, but we get it for free. You learn skills that you can use in everyday life, and everyone that participates is so passionate about what they want to do. You find out different things about yourself and others. In a life full of lessons to be learned, you can never learn enough, and this conference is definitely a learning experience,” said Coco Brown, student and Inter-Club Council Chair.

Attendees must attend the two full days of workshops to be eligible for a certificate, which will be presented at a ceremony during the spring semester. Sessions will run from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on both days. Refreshments and lunch will be provided at no cost. Students may pick up an application at the Student Activities Office, in room 3445 on the Oceanside campus and in the Student Center on the San Elizio campus. Or they may log onto www.miracosta.edu/student services/emergingleaders/application.html to complete an application.

In brief

New Caregiving Course offered

A new credit class, Caregiving: Techniques for Working with the Frail Elderly (GERO 130), will be offered at MCC beginning in the spring semester.

The class will provide practical and theoretical teaching on age-related physical and cognitive changes. Additionally, it will explore cultural diversity and its effect on caregiving, health consequences of caregiving, and available community resources. This course is specifically targeted for students interested in working in the field of aging or those who are caregivers for family members.

This 3-unit course counts toward the associate degree in gerontology, and also satisfies the Plan A, G.E. Area F (Cultural Diversity). It is acceptable for elective credit at CSU, and there is no prerequisite. This is an online late-start course and begins January 28.

H.O.P.E. Club hosts movie night

On Friday, November 16, the H.O.P.E. Volunteer Club will be holding a movie night fundraiser at 6 p.m. in the Student Center Temescal Room of the Oceanside campus. The movie will actually begin at 6:30. The two movies being shown are "A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving" and "The Campaign." The event is free, however donations are welcome. Pizza, popcorn and refreshments will be sold. Fun crafts will also be available for children during the “Charlie Brown” showings. The proceeds from this fundraiser will go toward the club spring break service project trip. For more information regarding this event, contact Heather May at hmay@miracosta.edu.

Dance, Dance, and Dance and Dance

MCC’s Dance Department will be holding their “Shapes & Reflections” dance show from Nov. 30 to Dec. 2. There will be a preview showing on Nov. 29 at 7:30. Admission for the preview showing is $8. General admission is $12, seniors and staff are $10, and students are $8.

The various styles being showcased are jazz, modern, contemporary, hip hop, ballet, Latin, and world dance.

For more information about this event and tickets, visit miracosta.edu/dance or call the box office at 760-795-6815.
A man, the age old question of premartial sex and whether or not people should be having it, I was raised with a red light on the subject which led me to believe in a future haven where sex when you are married is like having the best beer you’ve ever tasted on tap at your house. Only, the tap has a personality with ideas and opinions. I was ill-prepared for the world of datering due to the bubble of courtship that I had safely nestled myself into. These are some things that helped me figure out when or whether to take my relationship to the next level. To better equip the world of conservatives tettering on the idea of a test run in that I had safely nestled myself into.

Thermodynamics clearly states that in it, you’re not going anywhere. Thermodynamics wins again. What else this psychologically damaging vision of chemical bonding is telling us is something profoundly beautiful. There is a direct neurological link to sex and family, a sacred, universal connection that binds people together beyond their choosing to be apart. It’s the entropy that breaks our hearts.

Thermodynamics wins again. For you right-brainers, every time two people get it on, fireworks in the brain spell out the words: love, safety, connection and comfort. These feelings don’t go away. You can keep throwing more bonds in the box but you can’t extinguish the ones you’ve made. Do you really want to share the chemical equivalent of breastfeeding with Joe Shime at the bar or Loosey Lucy at the club last night? Hopefully most adults are somewhat educated on the risks of obtaining social diseases. If not, read “Candide.” Syphilis is getting pretty popular again.

The asymptomatic nature of STDs is enough to get me off the roster for team get busy. The majority of STDs produce no symptoms or signs, or produce symptoms so mild that they’re unnoticed. Consequently, many of the infected have no idea that they need medical care.

Gender disparities, like women suffering more frequent and more serious STD complications than men do are still peculiar to me, even after research. Among the most serious STD complications are pelvic inflammatory disease, ectopic pregnancy (pregnancy outside of the uterus), infertility, and chronic pelvic pain. Age is more than a number. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), compared to older adults, sexually active adolescents ages 15 to 19 and young adults ages 20 to 24 are at higher risk for getting STDs. Time between infection and complications are often a long interval. Sometimes years occurs between acquiring an STD and recognizing a clinically significant health problem. The CDC’s Reportable STD’s in Young People 15-24 by State and County, 2010, put San Diego County in the red (that’s bad) for P&S syphilis and chlamydia was a close second.

Now that we’re all tightening those chastity belts, how about addressing the moral aspects of whether or not to have and to hold before you hold-naked. Where is the beauty in premartial sex? Is it going to give a woman security that a little back-door hanging over the top of her strapless wedding gown isn’t going to scare away the man of her dreams? Is premarital sex going to give a less-endowed man the confidence to take a step toward commitment? After knowing some of the physical-chemical reactions that are happening in the body during intercourse, it seems potentially damaging to our emotional well-being to have sex without commitment. Our bodies seem to be wired for such a thing, yet the thrill of an endorphin rush from such a favorite form of cardio is altogether overwhelming when wishing prospects are right in front of you with no strings attached. Battling the desire for instant gratification is a constant but no matter where an individual’s moral hierarchy stands, I think everyone will agree that it hurts to be hurt, whether self-inflicted by our own choices or not. To engage in intercourse is to let another person become as physically close to you as possible, outside of being in utero. Sexual safety comes with honesty and trust. Upholding truth is an issue of morality. The fact is that our bodies create bonds. Despite the moral wars we can wage on our minds, we all have to be willing to take responsibility for the forces we choose to move within ourselves and each other.

“Therapy, marriage, children, and the rest of a happy life can never be forced upon a person. It is the only way to have a genuine personal or intimate relationship. It is the only way to be able to say, ‘I love you’ and mean it. It is the only way to make a commitment. It is the only way to build a family and live together.”

MiraCosta College November 12, 2012

Stephanie Phillips

Copy Editor

To sex or not to sex

What is the question

Photo by Stephanie Phillips

What do you think?

Do You Think People Should Wait Until Marriage To Have Sex?

“I feel the core of the human soul is based on experience. If they feel comfortable with each other and they’re in love, they should do it.”

Conor

“I don’t really feel comfortable discussing this topic.”

Frank

“I think you should wait but it’s not easy.”

Rebecca

“One word: herpes.”

Samantha

“It just seems all the more special when two people can have something together, just the two of them.”

Mary

“Although I have never done it [waited until marriage], I do believe it would be a wonderful way to begin a life together.”

Bob

To sex or not to sex

November 12, 2012

MiraCosta College

What do you think?

Do You Think People Should Wait Until Marriage To Have Sex?

“I feel the core of the human soul is based on experience. If they feel comfortable with each other and they’re in love, they should do it.”

Conor

“I don’t really feel comfortable discussing this topic.”

Frank

“I think you should wait but it’s not easy.”

Rebecca

“One word: herpes.”

Samantha

“It just seems all the more special when two people can have something together, just the two of them.”

Mary

“Although I have never done it [waited until marriage], I do believe it would be a wonderful way to begin a life together.”

Bob
Blue Gate Gallery Show features “Explorations” by Ann Olson

The Blue Gate Gallery will present works by Ann Olson from Nov. 13 to Nov. 23. There will be a closing reception on Nov. 28, at 11:15 p.m.

Olson is a re-entry student who has been studying art for three years at MCC. She has taken all units worth of courses in everything from the history of art to drawing and painting.

“I’m trying to build up my portfolio. I really enjoy the classes here and the amount of the focus the teachers put toward their students. The instruction is great. I’m very lucky to have the opportunity to go here,” said Olson.

The artist has a B.A. in Education, and is currently applying to graduate school at UCSD and the Art Institute of Boston.

“What I like best about art is that it’s a great way of self expression, and self expression is a survival of humanity,” Olson says.

This show represents two avenues of exploration in my artistic process since 2011. The first explores portraiture using charcoal and paint. The second represents my investigation of a variety of printmaking techniques.

The drawings feature the use of symbols and repetitive imagery to describe the event or the personality of the subject. The prints are treating the line work that allowed me to explore this process driven medium and discover its expressive possibilities.

Catch the original before you see the remake

Alexandra Korbin
Staff Writer

Helen Bonham-Carter and Ralph Fiennes of the Harry Potter franchise will star in the newest version of Great Expectations this month. But film critic Leonard Martin calls an earlier version of the classic story “one of the greatest films of all time.” To fully appreciate this upcoming film, you owe it to yourself to first see David Lean’s epic film Great Expectations, the story of a young orphan named Pip whose life is forever changed when a secret benefactor reveals that he is destined to grow up to be a gentleman of “great expectations.”

As a young boy, Pip meets grotesque characters who mold his simple life into that of a London gentleman. But even as Pip carries out the extravagant lifestyle he always dreamed of, his memories are plagued by an escaped convict that he dreads, the demented heiress Miss Havisham, and the cruel Estella who Pip has fallen hopelessly in love with. David Lean’s 1946 adaptation (white films include Dr. Zhivago and Lawrence of Arabia) of Charles Dickens’ cherished novel is filled with memorable performances from the actors, who bring Dickens’ famous characters to life. The film follows Dickens’ novel seamlessly, giving the mysterious and thrilling story an expert performance, and earned praise from film critics. See if you can notice every young for Alex Guinness (famous for his role as Obi-Wan Kenobi) during his performance as Pip’s best friend. There’s still plenty of time to order the classic version from Netflix (also available on the Instant Queue) before the newest film hits theaters.

Oddball--A new sound with a classic feel

Robert Shepherd
Staff Writer

Oddball is a San Diego based rock band that fuses punk, metal and ‘80s glam-rock into one dynamic package. Oddball is Rob Shepherd, lead vocals and guitar, Kevin Kane, bass Zach Granlic, drums and the newest member Wess Hawkins, on lead guitar. Oddballs’ songs with titles like: T.J. Hooker and Tequila Mockingbird allow the listener to quickly come to the realization that these very accomplished musicians don’t make the mistake of taking themselves too seriously, making their live show thoroughly enjoyable.

The song “So Sorry” has been made into a full length music video, taped and directed: by Chance Kaisel, and can be viewed from their Facebook page. Be sure to “like” the page to keep updated on upcoming events.

If you’re looking for a local act with a “big time” feel, Oddball fits the bill, with a new sound and look yet holding on to its classic tone. Their songs are entertaining, memorable and well structured. While opening for international touring and recording acts such as D.R.I. and Missing Persons this group has held their own. I see a lot of acts and I can say with all confidence, this band has what it takes to make it. Tim Pyles has been playing a couple of selections off the newest C.D. “Cold Beer, Dirty Girls” on 94/9 over the last couple of months and has been working with the band to put some dates together.

The boys will be playing in L.A. and surrounding areas for the next few weeks but will return to San Diego in December. For a complete schedule check out Oddball San Diego on Facebook. I highly recommend catching a show when you have the opportunity.

Disney does not disappoint

Roberto Suarez
Photographer

Now that Halloween is over, a new month begins, most evidently in the theatres as we start to lean more towards family movies as the holidays begin. With so many new movies to choose from, you must ask yourself which one do I watch?

Many of us as college students will want to escape our stressful lives and return to a time when things were simpler. Why not turn and watch a children’s CGI film? Did I mention the film is produced by Disney?

This month, Disney released the ever so hyped movie Wreck it Ralph. After many months of anticipation and anxious fans waiting for this film, I dare say that it does not disappoint. The film revolves around video game characters and their lives after the arcades close, and reveals what happens in the heart of Game Central Station, closely resembling an idea very similar to the Toy Story franchise.

The movie’s main character is Ralph, who ironically is a good guy stuck with the job of playing the video game villain as a building wrecker. This causes his neighbors in the video game world to think he is indeed a real bad boy. In order to seek a little “Wreckognition,” Ralph decides to video game jump into other games, which is against the law in the video game world. Along the way he meets many colorful characters, including his right hand wing girl, Vanellope Von Schweetz.

The characters are very well scripted and while some of the character types seem to be recycled (such as Ralph being the ostracized outcast, Vanellope being the hyperactive ambitious young child, Sergeant Tamora being the overly upright military commander, and Fix-it Felix being the self determined secondary hero), Disney manages to give these personalities a fresh new look, which makes the movie even more enjoyable. While I am not a big fan of overused and constant bombardment of puns, Disney makes them work, and they end up being quite charming and funny.

This movie is perfect to watch with your family, friends, or even younger siblings. It is well rounded and has something for everyone.

If you are a gamer or a fan of video games, then I would highly recommend this film to you, as the nostalgia will greatly sink in. Disney, take my tokens. I demand a sequel.
What MiraCostans are doing for others

Diane Danielewicz, Scholarship Specialist.

"I do it every year because it makes me feel good that I am helping a child, in some small way, have a wonderful Christmas."

"It’s heartwarming. I love being able to give back. It’s nice to be able to give what most of us don’t get to have. Growing up I didn’t have a lot, so it’s nice to be able to feel that you know what they’re going through too."

Coco Brown, student

"I do it every year because it makes me feel good that I am helping a child, in some small way, have a wonderful Christmas."

"It’s heartwarming. I love being able to give back. It’s nice to be able to give what most of us don’t get to have. Growing up I didn’t have a lot, so it’s nice to be able to feel that you know what they’re going through too."

Patty Bach, Vice President of CLC

"I love the Holiday Angels. The celebration is about the students’ children who are getting it. A lot of the children come from low income families and this might be the only gift they get. And I love Christmas time. This is a time to give to kids and I love it and I like it’s anonymous."

"I’ve never heard of it before but I would definitely participate. Getting a gift for kids and putting a smile on their face is worth a thousand words."

Victoria Fuller, student

Would you like to help the countless victims of hurricane Sandy who have lost everything? The Chariot accepting donations to be sent to a food bank in New Jersey. With the elections overshadowing most everything newsworthy in recent weeks, many are almost unaware of the devastation East Coast states have experienced. The local food banks in the area are completely depleted, so many are going hungry. Here’s your chance to help. The Chariot staff is accepting donations. For your donation of any amount, you will receive a specially designed wristband to remind others of the needs of the storm victims. To make your donation, stop by the Chariot Newsroom between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Or you may send a check to Mail Stop 12A. Make checks payable to MiraCosta College and write "I love NJ." in the memo line.

Support our Holiday Angels Project! Help us reach our goal to serve every child

As we approach the Holiday season, the Associated Student Government would like to invite you to join us in our annual Holiday Angels Project to benefit the children at Leucadia Head Start. Your participation helps guarantee that approximately one hundred children will have something exciting to open to celebrate the holidays. To participate in this year’s Holiday Angels Project there are just seven easy steps:

1. Select an angel from the Holiday tree located in the cafeteria
2. Complete the green card on the back of each Angel with your name, phone number and e-mail
3. Remove the card and put it in the box near the tree
4. Purchase and wrap the gift. Gifts should range from $20 - $30
5. Use the Angel as the gift tag
6. Turn in your gift to the Student Activities Office at San Elmo by Friday, December 7, 2012
7. Gifts will be delivered to Leucadia Head Start the following week
HSP Student Wins Osher Scholarship

Storm Marquis
Contributing Writer

Meet Miles Stanley, an avid reader, History buff, Star Wars enthusiast, and one of this year’s recipients of the The Osher Scholarship. The Osher Scholarship awards financial support to twenty students, or students that have experienced an interruption in their education of five or more years and who now want to resume their undergraduate university studies to complete their degree. For Stanley, this means continuing his education of five or more years permitting.

It’s a great way to meet new people.

Come catch a falling star

Fall star gazing parties are planned for Dec. 7 & 8, from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., weather permitting. The events are free and open to the public weather permitting.

Students may request proof of attendance for extra credit assignments.

For more info visit the Astronomy Program website at http://tinyurl.com/mccastro.

See “Panco Gonzalez: Warrior of the Court”

On Nov. 30, at 5:30 p.m. MiraCosta College’s San Elipho Campus is proud to host a free screening of the film “Panco Gonzalez: Warrior of the Court.”

Richard Alonzo “Panco” Gonzalez was a Mexican-American became a tennis champion, breaking the color barrier that had long been a tradition of the game.

The evening will feature a guest appearance by the film’s director, Danny Haro.

The event will be held in the Student Center Conference Room and is sponsored by MiraCosta College, ASG and the Office of School Relations and Diversity Outreach.

This week the Chariot staff salutes all MCC veterans.

Thank you for your bravery, service and dedication to our

Phil Theta Kappa “Commit to Complete” Banner Signing

On Thursday, Phi Theta Kappa is hosting the Community College Completion Challenge (C4 Signing Day event), a Call to Action by President Barack Obama, for community colleges to produce an additional 5 million certificates and associate degrees by 2020. The C4 Project is a nationwide campaign to get as many students as possible to commit to completing their college degree or certificate.

Students, faculty and staff are encouraged to participate in the day’s event by providing their signatures and signing the “completion banner” in support of this important initiative. As a Phi Theta Kappa chapter, we signed the C4 commitment at the Phi Theta Kappa International Convention in Tennessee last spring. This year we hope you will join us by putting your name next to ours at MiraCosta’s own banner signing day.

Please visit the table located in the dining room (building 3400) on the Oceanside campus where Phi Theta Kappa members will be securing signatures from 11 am to 2:00 p.m. For more information regarding this event, please visit MiraCosta’s chapter (Alpha Chi Lambda) of Phi Theta Kappa’s website: http://alphachi lambda-ptk.wix.com/miracosta-college-project.c60m.

The event will be held from 11 a.m. – 2 p.m., in the dining room on the Oceanside Campus.

Student Life

this week

Tuesday

Parents on Campus, 10-10:45 a.m., Temescal

H.O.P.E. Volunteer Group, 12-1:00 p.m., Temescal

Latina Leadership Network, 12:1-1:5 p.m., Club Room

Puente Club, 12:30-1:30 p.m., Q Room

Nursing Information Session, 6-7 p.m., Nursing Information Conference Room

CSUSM Men’s Basketball Game, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Gym

Wednesday

UC/CSU Transfer Workshop, 10-11:30 a.m., Computer Lab Library

InterClub Council Leadership Meeting, 12:20-1:30 p.m., Q Room

Encuentros Leadership Club, 2-3:30 p.m., Temescal

Thursday

UC/CSU Transfer Workshop-SEC, 10:30 a.m.-12:00 p.m., Computer Lab

MAT-PCS San Elipho

Resume Review, 12:15-1:15 p.m., Computer Lab Career Center

Pacific Islander Career Center, 1-2:00 p.m., Temescal

Secular Student Alliance Meeting, 2-3:30 p.m., Club Room

Accounting/Club Business, 6-7:30 p.m., Conference Room

M.E.Ch.A., Meeting, 6-8:30 p.m., Q Room

Performance Writer Club, 6-8:00 p.m., Little Theater, Room 3601

Theatre: Oedipus the King, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Theatre 2001

Friday

Umoja Community Meeting, 8-11:30 a.m., Club Room

International Film Series, 1-3:00 p.m., Multi-purpose Room SEC

CSUSM Women’s Basketball, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Gym

Theatre: Oedipus the King, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Theatre 2001
Workshops this Week
Job/internship Search, every Mon., 12:30 p.m.-1:30 p.m.

Undecided About Your Major, Nov 14, 2:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Resume Review, Thurs., 12:15 p.m.-1:15 p.m during college hour.

For complete information on jobs/ internships search the job board by Bldg. 3700 Oceanside Campus, or call 760-795-6772. Staff will be at San Elijo Campus, Administration Building most Mondays and Wednesdays from 9-Noon. Walk-ins welcome or call to schedule.

November 12, 2012
MiraCosta College
Can't find your iPod, cell phone or wallet?

It could be sitting in the Lost and Found located at the Campus Police Station. To see if it's there, call Campus Police at 760 795-6640. Or you may go into the station located across from the Theatre on the Oceanside campus.